

Important for the Weeks of March 25th and April 1st, 2019.

Dear HFGS Families, Faculty, Staff, and Friends,

I was back from Finland last week and ready to share the experience of the Finnish educational system. I can't wait to share with you what I, and the other eleven (11) principals from the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, have learned from there. I was at the University of Tampere and in affiliation with Learning Scoop, received an up-close and personal view of daily life of students, teachers, and principals in the Finnish schools. I plan to share these wonderful observations, their national core curriculum, school and classroom implementation, and valuable characteristics that are noteworthy of sharing in the next succeeding and solid straight principal newsletters as well as an overview of their system during our April PTO General Assembly. I am blessed to have been granted such an opportunity!

The Government of Finland

Finland is governed by its status as a republic with representative democracy. The public administration is composed of the highest elected bodies, state administration, local government, and the judiciary. The highest elected body is made up of the parliament, the president, and the government. The Parliament of Finland exercises the legislative powers while the executive power is exercised by the cabinet supervised by the premier who heads the government of Finland.

Ministry of Education

The Ministry of Education and Culture prepares the legislation and regulations for the education sector. The Government decides on the national objectives for education, the time allocation for compulsory and optional subjects in basic and general upper secondary education as well as the common core subjects and their scope in vocational education and training. In higher education the universities and polytechnics have autonomy with regard to the contents of their study programmes.

The national-level core curricula and qualification requirements in Finland are norms enacted by the Finnish National Agency for Education. These define the objectives and core contents as well as the basic principles of cooperation with homes as well as the objectives of pupil and student welfare services.

Distribution of lesson hours

The overall distribution of lesson hours for basic education and the minimum number of lessons for core subjects during basic education are decided by the Government. The distribution of lesson hours stipulates the core subjects taught to all pupils and the distribution of teaching hours between different subjects.

More to come, very grateful for you, and God bless!
- Dr. Suelto, Principal
